57. When should proposed orders be submitted separately?

Proposed orders are not final upon initial clerk review and therefore behave differently in the efile system upon initial clerical processing. When more than one proposed order is submitted, proposed orders are not released back with status (such as accepted or rejected) until all orders in that same envelope are finalized. A helpful tip to keep in mind when submitting proposed orders is to determine whether you want to wait for all orders before receiving conformed copies; if your answer is no, then submit the proposed orders in separate envelopes.

Proposed orders for Appointment of a Probate Referee should be submitted separately and must have a prior order granting the petition on file. If they are submitted with other proposed orders, there will be a delay in receiving copies of all orders contained in the envelope or may be rejected and the user will be asked to resubmit if no prior order granting the petition is on file.

Proposed orders for Minor's Compromise should continue to be submitted together in one envelope. These are processed together and all conformed copies will be returned together upon finalization of the last order entered.

Ex parte applications should have the proposed order included in the same envelope. Since only one order is submitted in the envelope with the Ex Parte application, delay will not be experienced due to processing of other orders.

Filings bearing the same case number may continue to be submitted in one envelope. Submitting multiple proposed orders in the same envelope may cause a delay in receiving conformed or rejected orders pending processing of all orders in the envelope.

58. How do I obtain a certified copy?

Certified copies may be requested from the court's records unit by mail or in person. If submitted by mail, include a pre-paid method of return, such as a stamped, self-addressed stamped envelope.
